Reception Last Night by the Union League.

TWO TERSE SPEECHES FROM THE GENERAL.

There was another growd at the temporary residence ral Sherman yesterday. Before noon over one bundred calls had been made. Among those who called and remained with the General for some time were Gene-ral Van Vliet, Major General Dix, General Anderson, Rev. Dr. Spring, Wm. M. Evarts, Esq., and several other gen emen of distinction.

The usual crowd occupied the sidewalk from an early sour of the morning, and waited until the General should make his appearance. Cheers occasionally were given for the distinguished soldier.

The hours were passed by those inside in social chit-

Mrs. Sherman was present, and entertained her uests with gentle urbanity and attention. The General alked spiritedly with all. A stream of visitors continued ing and going until one o'clock. At that hour Generman drove out in company with Mr. Scott.

THE VISIT TO MR. WALKER'S STUDIO.

rtly after two o'clock the General, accompanied by General Robert Anderson, Major Nichols, of his staff, and a large body of officers and citizens, visited the studio of Mr. James Walker, No. 694 Broadway. His visit was for the purpose of examining the studies made by Mr. Walker for paintings for the Capitol of the battles of Chattanooga and Ressacca, in which the General played an important part. Mr. Walker also had on exhibition a series of pictures of our prominent generals, including Thomas, Logan, Butterfield, Hooker, Sherman,

The General paid the artist many high compliments for his work, pronouncing the portraits great successes, and ularly admiring the faithfulness with which the dress, accountements, and general appearance of sain subject had been preserved. When the studies of Lookout Mountain, Mission Ridge and Chattanooga valley were produced the General found himself as it were " and explained to the visitors who had at tended him the points of the great battle field. A study of the battle field of Ressacca, showing General Butterold's division charging across a valley, was also much admired, and explained by the General with as much ease is thorough acquaintance with the field, but the artist's attaruses in his labor. "There are my boys," he said, tamining the figures of his soldiers on the canvass; there are the very boys that carried me through South lina. And yes, yes, that's the place where the rebels

SPEECH OF HON. JAMES W. REEKMAN. Hon. James W. Brennan, in the absence of the Presi dent of the club (Charles H. Marshall, Esq.), then de livered the following welcoming address Major General Serman—On behalf of the Union League Club I bid you welcome. Your face has long been familiar to us all, so far as the skill of the photographers could make it known to us. To night; when you give us the honor of your company, we realize in your presence what hitheric has been a hope. Your deeds have furnished our halls with many a commemorative device. Atlanta, thattanooga, Savannah, Charles-Ion (the Gibraltar of rebel engineering), which fell at the shadow of your advancing arms, many males rative device. Atlanta, unstancoga, Savannai, Charleston (the Gibraltar of rebel engineering), which fell at the bladow of your advancing army, many males away, and capitulated by force of an inference; Columbia and Raieigh—sil these have been watchwords here. When you led the way through Georgis, here we traced, day by day, your progress, when we could, and whether we could or no we were always sure you would come out triumplant. (Cheers.) When you visited upon the absurd and truculent vanity of South Carolina the just venguence she had provoked we here rejoiced at your wide army sweeping across the country of that idicalous chivalry. When men doubted whether Sherman's army could ever make its way to Terry and Schofield we siwary maintained here that the thing was as good as done. (Cheers.) We talked of you, we praised you, we love you for the directness and patriotic sentiments of daty with which you made war. We have striven, as well as civilians might, to do what we could all through the four years war, to uphold our government and its defenders with truth and loyalty. As one of the most illustrious of these defenders we thank you, and congratulate you, General, on the glorious way in which God has permitted you to lead the straight of the country. (Cheers.)

SPRECH OF GENERAL SHERMAN. To this address General Sherman responded as fol-doep interest, and, I think, I could, by a little explan-tion, make many points clear to you which are new ob-soure. (Choors.) Time enough for that, however, in the future. All I need to say new is that I thank you again most heartily for the kindly greeting you have given me, and you, sir, for the handsome manner in which you have discharged your trust. (Loud choers.)

PASSAGE OF RESOLUTIONS. THAN STURES then proposed the resolutions, which were adopted unanimously:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Union League Club be tendered to Major General W. T. Sherman for his noble co-operation with Lieutenant General Grant in the campaigns which resulted in the surrender of all the rebel armies, and the restoration of peace to our entire Country.

recei artaios, and the restoration of peace country.

Resolved. That the advice of General Sherman to his soldiers in his farewell address to them, to go quietly to their homes and to shun all those who would induce them to join in any irregular warfare upon their neighbors, meets with the hearty approval of this club.

Each gentleman then came up in turn and shook hands with the General. This part of the proceedings lasted for ome twenty minutes.

The patience of the outside assemblage was beginning to get exhausted, and they clamored for General Sherman This desire was speedily gratified, as the General came out on the balcony and was received with three times three. He said:—

I cannot make moonlight stronger than it is, neither do I wish to exhibit myself by gaslight. (Laughter and cheers. A lamp was here brought out, which, being held before the General, showed him plainly to the crowd). I know you all want to see me. Take a good look now, and imagine the rest. (Cheers).

After this rather terse speech the distinguished soldie

MAJOR GENERAL ROSECRANS APPEARS. Repeated calls were then made for General Rosecrans He soon appeared on the balcony and thanked the assem plage for their cordial greeting. He was proud to appea there that evening among a body of loyal men, now that the war was over, and that there was no further danger from the workings of treason. (Cheers.) The speaker

The company then partook of refreshments, and the General left about ten o'clock. He immediately drove direct to Twenty-third street.

A PUBLIC RECEPTION TENDERED The Common Council have been rather unsuccessful in their efforts to get hold of General Sherman. Since his arrival in the city they made several attempts at an in-terview, but without success. The General had either gone out or was engaged. This is deemed unfortunate, and the Committee on National Affairs appear sorely puzzled at the result. The great military lion of the time has escaped them so far, and the committee has been deprived of showing him their lavish attentions usual on such occasions.

In consequence of this unnatural state of affairs Alderman Farley, chairman of the Committee on National Affairs of the Common Council, yesterday transmitted the following note to General Sherman:-

VISIT OF GENERAL THOMAS TO THE FOURTEENTH

This afternoon Major General G. H. Thomas paid a visit to his old corps, the Fourteenth, which is now com-manded by Major General Jeff. C. Davis. He reviewed rather an impromptu affair, got up to enable the men to see their old General, who is perfectly idolized by them. The General was cheered by the regiments as he passed along, and then by the brigades and divisions. The men were wild with delight at the opportunity of once more seeing their old commander, with whom they had fought at Stone river, Chickamauga and on many other well-contested battle fields which had been immortalized by their bravery and heroism. Their enthusiasm was fully reciprocated by the General, who was no less delighted

He also had a grand reception from the officers of the corps. After the review General Thomas proceeded to corps headquarters, where a collation had been prepared by General Davis, and where he spent some time in renewing his acquaintance with his old comrades in arms. The band of the Seventy-ninth Pennsylvania ser him at the headquarters until he left for the city.

The serenade last night was given by the officers of his old division, the First, now commanded by Major General Baird. All the officers of the division, except two left to take charge of the camp, were present at the

THE NEW ARCHMSHOP OF WESTMINSTER.

The following particulars concerning the newly appointed Archbishop of Westminster are taken from the London Tablet:

The Most Rev. Henry Edward Manning, son of the late

The Most Rev. Henry Edward Manning, son of the late william Manning, Esq., was born at Totterddge, in Hertfordshire, on the 15th July, 1808. He was educated at Harrow, from whence he proceeded to Oxford, and entered as an under graduate at Eshiol Cellege in 1827. In Michaelmas Term, 1839, he took a first class in classics, and was about to affect the faithful for the control of tered as an under graduate at Baliol Cellege in 1827. In Michaelmas Term, 1830, he took a first class in classica, and was shortly afterwards elected fellow of Merton College, where he remained until 1833. Having become a minister in the Protestant church, he entered upon the living in Lavington, in Sussax, and it was during his residence there that he published the senies of sermons which to this day are in high repute among Anglicans. In 1840 he was named Archdeacon of Chichester, and he continued to hold this office until having, by God's grace, arrived at a fuller knowledge of the revelation of the Day of Pentecost, he made his submission to the Catholic Church in 1851. Very shortly afterwards he was ordained priest by the late Cardinal Wiseman; and his conversion must thus be considered as one of the first fruits of the grace which England received in the erection of the present hierarchy. He did not remain in England, but went at once to Rome, to continue, at the centre of all theological learning, the course of study which had been his favorite pursuit even before his conversion. Arrived in Rome, by desire of the Holy Father, he entered the Academis, where he remained until 1854. He then returned to England, and commenced an active career of missionary work, in which he was chiefly remarkable for his success in the conversion of Protestants, a larger number of whom have been reconciled to the church by Monsignor Manning than probably any other priest of our time. Subsequently the Holy Father, and entilly then work of the Cardinal Archbishop, he undertook the establishment in the diocese of Westminster of the Congregation of the Oblates of St. Charles, of whom he has continued superior up to the present time. In 1860 the Holy Father again recognized his services to the Gurch and devotion to the Holy See, and created him Bomestic Prelite and Prothonotary Apostolic. Since his conversion he has published many works, of all sizes, of which perhaps the best known are the sermons on ecclesiastical subjects and THE METHODIST EPISCOBAL CHURCH SOUTH.

SUMS GOOD ADVICE BY RESIDED FAINE.

The Meridian (Miss.) Clarion of the 11th of May publishes the following remarks made by Hishop Paine, of the Methodist Episcopal church South, to this congregation at Aberdeen a few days previously:

We have passed through four years of fierce and bloody war. It is over. The decision has been made by the military authorities, and, I presume I might add, with the advice of the civil authorities also; for, doubtless, they have concurred with the military, though not formally and in their official capacities. Our troops have been surrendered, and will all soon be parciaed. Our armies exist as such no longer. The whole country east of the Mississippi river now resumes its place in the Union. What, then, is the proper course to be pursued by critizens? His own conviction on this subject was clear and decided. It is, that we should calmiy, quietly and unanimously resume our former position as peaceful citizens, and in good faith eater as such upon the performance of our duties. Our country has certainty suffered enough in all that is dear to us. Thousands of precious lives have been lest and millions of property destroyed; but let us henceforth turn our thoughts and efforts to the pursuits of life which are necessary and useful. A NEGRO DELIGATE IN THE NEW SCHOOL PRESEYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Rev. John B. Reeve, a colored minister, has been received as alternate delegate for the Rev. Thomas Braihard, of Philadelphia, in the New School Presbyterian General Assembly, now in session at Pittsburg. Dr. Brainard, in introducing him, said:—

He is, I believe, the first colored man ever elected to any General Assembly. As our grand national conflict has settled the question that color is no longer to be an apology for oppression, and as colored men have shed their blood freely for our flag and our country, there seems to be a propriety in giving some merited token of respect and regard to their representatives in the Church, and it is eminently proper that our branch of the Church, which first caunciated the principles of human freedom, should be the first to rise above the prejudices of caste.

Webber was relieved from duty at the station

about eight o'clock in the evening and went to his home, reaching there a few moments afterwards. When he entered he saw Mr. Ainsley sitting in the room talk tered he saw Mr. Ainsley sitting in the room talking to Mrs. Webber. This appeared to irritate him greatly, and he began an angry conversation with him. Mrs. Webber interfered, and advised Ainsley to leave the house, for fear that Webber's temper might become ungovernable and lead him to commit some violence. As far as can be accertained, Mr. Ainsley was in the act of complying with this request when Webber suddenly stepped forward, drew his revolver, and shot Ainsley through the breast. The latter fell to the floor senseless. He was taken up by the neighbors a few moments afterwards and conveyed to the Eleventh precinct station house, but died on the way, not speaking from the time he was shot until he died. Immediately after committing the deed Webber fled from the house. Information was sent a once to all the stakions, and a search everywhere instituted. The officers were soon on the murderr's track, and, finding himself hotly, pursued he went into a vacant lot on a part of avenue B, located in the Eighteenth precinct, and shot himself through the head, inflicing a mortal wound. Officer Reynolds, of the Eighteenth precinct, found him, and took him to the Eighteenth precinct station house, and from thence to Bellevue Hospital. He was not expected to survive through the night.

Coroner Wildey was notified of the tragedy, and proceeded at once to the scene of the murder. An inquest will be held to-day, at which all the particulars of the affair will be brought out.

From all that could be gleaned at a late hour last night if did not appear that Webber had any cause for jealousy, Mr. Ainsley was a bachelor, about thirty-three years of age, and until very recently was employed in the City Inspector's Department. Webber is also about thirty-three years of age. He has no shildren. He had served two years in the army. Ainsley was a sober and industrious man, and it is stated only visited the house of Webber when he thought the later would be retieved from duty and be at home. The inquest will be held at the Eleventh ing to Mrs. Webber. This appeared to irritate him

Opening of the Bids for the Street Clean-

At length the first step has been made towards the proper cleaning of the streets of our metropolic, and it is to be honed that we want to be honed that hoped that we may not in the ensuing summer be smothered with dust, or in the winter be hable to en-gulfment from half frozen snow and mud. The Board the idea of a street cleaning contract, asserting that th them in order was perfectly satisfactory. It appears acknowledge the authority of the municipal government baving been regularly appointed by the Legisla-ture, and only subservient to the Board of Health if such body consider that the condition of the streets militate against the proper sanitary state of the city. At twelve M. yesterday the bids were opened in the presence of a full board, comprising Hon. C. G. Gunther, J. J. Hofiman, Recorder; M. T. Brennan, Comprofiler, F. I. A. Boole, City Inspector, and J. E. Develin, Counsel to Corporation. Previous to the opening of the bids the Mayor stated that the commission reserved to themselves the right of medifying the specifications as may appear best for the interests of the city. The bids were seven in number, and were opened as follows:—

ALLEGED CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD INSURANCE COMPANIES ARREST OF MERCHANTS. Captain Greer, of the Third precinct, and officer Scott, of his force, yesterday arrested four merchants, of highly respectable appearance, named Judah Pierce, John W Freeman, Luther N. Fuller and Win. Findon, on a war rant issued by Justice Dowling, the complainant being Henry W. Scoble, a member of the Fire Insurance patrol, residing at 473 Greenwich street. The gentlemen appre hended have been doing business at No. 4 Erie buildings, Buane street, for some time past, and dealt largely in whiskey and other spirits. Mr. Sceble makes on ings, hume street, for some time past, and dealt largely in whiskey and other spirits. Mr. Sceble makes oath that a fee broke out on the third floor of the premises bove on the night of the 20th of April, which flo be of suspiceous origin, and about twelve when night of the 8th olt. a fire was discovered the same place with the first one. Mr. Scoble the insurance patrol, made a therough examination of the premises after the last fire, and found that there was far less whitkey, &c., stored on the various floors of the building than had been represented by the defendants. In his deposition Mr. Scoble says, from the large amount of insurance on the property alleged to be in the building, and in the less property found in the building, he is of the belief that a colusion existed between the defendants for the purpose of fraudulently obtaining money from insurance companies, and asks for a thorough investigation. The witness further says that he is of the belief, and so charges Judah Pierce, with purposely and feindicusly setting fire to, and did burn the said building and portions of merchandise therein, with an intent to defraud the Reisef, international, St. Nicholas, and other Insurance Companies; and further, that Freeman. Fuller and Findon did conspire with fierce to effect the folony. It is said that the defendants were insured for about seventy-five thousand dollars on property alleged to have been fin the building, but the examination subsequent to the last fire showed that the goods in the premises did not exceed fifteen thousand dollars or twenty thousand dollars in value. The accused parties chain to be entirely innecess of the serious companies preferred against them, but they were detained in charge of Captain Greer to await an examination, which will take place before Justice Dowling and Fire Marshal Baker.

ROBBING A PRISON OFFICIAL. On Friday night Mr. Joseph Dougherty, an attache of the City Prison (Tombs), in passing up Morcer street, was accosted at the corner of Spring by two men, who endeavored to entice him into one of the drinking saloons of that locality, and partially succeeded in their designs. of that locality, and partially succeeded in their designs. Before leaving Mr. Dougherty, however, the men managed to secure his gold watch and chain and escaped with it. Subsequently detective King and officer Riley, of the Eighth precinct, arrested John Ward, alias Sparrow, and John Malley, on suspicion of being the men who relieved Mr. Dougherty of his timepiece, and by a little strategy on the part of the officers they obtained a confession of guilt from the prisoners, besides recovering the stolen property. Ward and Malley were taken before Justice Dodge and committed for trial in default of $1,500 ball each.

On Friday night Mr. George Weightman, janitor Grammar School 47, in Twelfth street, while in the act of entering a Fourth avenue car, at the Thirty fourth of entering a Fourth avenue car, at the Thirty-fourth street ferry, was assaulted by a suspicious looking person, and, turning suddenly around, discovered his silver watch and gold chain, worth $40, in the hands of the man. Mr. Weightman recovered his timepice from the thief, but the latter pulled away from him and escaped into a car, whither he was pursued and arrested by officer Shalney, of the Seventh precinct. The prisoner, who gave his name as George Miller, was taken before Justice Shandley, and committed for examination.
